Chairman's Message

Aloha, KIUC 'Ohana!

As we navigated the uncertain waters of 2021 together, we successfully stayed the course and are looking forward to smoother travels in the coming year.

One of the most significant accomplishments of the past 12 months was the progress we made in moving the West Kaua'i Energy Project forward. WKEP is our most ambitious renewable energy undertaking to date. Its importance to our future as a cooperative and an island community cannot be understated.

We seek to create the world's first pumped-storage hydropower facility powered by solar, eliminating the use of 8 million gallons of fossil fuel a year and meeting nearly 25% of Kaua'i's electricity demand.

During the past nine months we've held numerous virtual and in-person meetings to share information on WKEP and we couldn't be more pleased with the productive dialogue that's occurred. You can be certain 2022 will bring many more opportunities for you to learn about WKEP. We hope you will actively participate in the process of bringing this innovative project to life.

Warmest regards, Allan A. Smith

Sharing the Love of Books By Phil Tacbian

One of the many programs undertaken by KIUC is the International Committee's collection of books to send to our sister cooperatives in Ilocos

Norte and Ilocos Sur in the Republic of the Philippines. Books are collected from all of the schools on Kaua'i as they are replaced with newer editions.

One of our members, retired high school teacher Rudy Sina, volunteered his time in this project and spent many hours tirelessly collecting and sorting the books. Rudy came to Hawai'i as a young man from Vintar, Ilocos Norte. Changing careers from law to education, he spent his working years with the Department of Education. His experience proved to be valuable to KIUC's book donation program. With his knowledge of the education system in the llocos, he is able to sort the type of books that would have the most value to the students in different grade levels.

"Mr. Sina tirelessly think of ways to make this program happen," says KIUC's Pia Gregorio, who is the staff liaison to the International Committee. "He connects and build relationships with Kaua'i schools so we can have access to these books."

Kaua'i volunteers collect books for shipment to the Pl Below is retired high school teacher Rudy Sing,

The last shipment of books went to Ilocos Norte Electric Cooperative, whose board of directors passed a Resolution on September 7, 2021, which reads in part: "WHEREAS, the KIUC, sistercooperative of INEC, donated books to the cooperative; WHEREAS, these books shall be distributed to the different schools in the province, which will serve as additional reading materials of their respective pupils; WHEREAS, it is but proper for the INEC to convey its highest appreciation and profound gratitude to the KIUC."

The 2020 shipment went to Ilocos Sur Electric Cooperative.

To Rudy Sina and all those who assisted in this program: Thank you, mahalo and salamat for making it all happen. 🛇

Fill Your Family's Stockings with...JOY

The holidays are here and nearly everyone is thinking about what to get for the kids on their list. One thing we hear from Kaua'i youth is that they would like the gift of time. Your time. You matter to them.

The Kaua'i Resilience Project wants us to know that our kids need us now more than ever. They need your gift of time - as well as your love and support. Every child needs someone in their corner.

This holiday season, why not give a child you care about your undivided attention? Play a board game, go to the beach, take a hike. Whatever you choose, choose to listen. Really listen. Show them how much they matter. And then you will know how much you matter to them.

These simple tips will strengthen your family bonds and build resilience in your children:

Turn off .... Your phone. Take a social media break. Feel the JOY of removing anxiety.

> Tune in... To your `Ohana. Really listen. Laugh a lot. Create family traditions. Play games. Feel the JOY of connecting.

Live Aloha! Help someone who needs it. Show kindness. Love one another. Feel the JOY of the season.

By slowing down, you may discover more JOY in every moment.

The Kaua'i Resilience Project : brings together leaders in our community to make that difference, but we cannot do it alone. There is something for everyone in our commuity to do, every day, to support kids. As we reflect back on our years, ask yourself this question - Who was in your corner when you were a kid? How can you pass on what they gave you onto the next generation? Are you willing to show up and be someone's mentor? Share your story with us! Email info@kauainetwork.org. # The Spirit of the Season

By David Iha

It was a hot, sunny October day in Kekaha, but fall was I know each of my colleagues on the KIUC Board of Directors shares the pride I feel in representing our members definitely in the air. You couldn't miss it, with large piles of beautiful, locally grown pumpkins stacked neatly under three and serving a community where neighbor helping neighbor is the norm, not the exception. tents.

Members of the KIUC Board of Directors, KIUC staff and representatives from our renewable energy partner, AES, gathered with other volunteers to bring cheer to hundreds of westside keiki in the first of several island-wide pumpkin giveaways. It's difficult to describe the joy our team and all volunteers felt as pumpkins, fresh produce and other items were shared with grateful residents as they drove through Kekaha Neighborhood Park.

Spearheaded by the Hawai'i Crop Improvement Association and the Kekaha Agriculture Association, this annual event has spread from Kekaha all the way to Hā'ena and is a wonderful example of how the aloha spirit lives even during the most difficult times of the pandemic.

The organizers enlisted the support of companies such as KIUC, AES, Grove Farm, Alexander and Baldwin, Kaua'i Shrimp and many others to make sure every child on Kaua'i had access to a locally grown pumpkin.

During this holiday season and into the new year, I hope we will all continue to find ways to support each other: from Mānā to Hā'ena. 🗘

SOS to the Rescue

By Beth Tokioka

A tiny endangered Ua'u—or Hawaiian Petrel—chick continues to make progress after a dramatic rescue and weeks of care from professionals with the Save our Shearwaters program on Kaua'i.

"The chick's prognosis remains guarded at this stage, but its behavior has improved greatly since intake," says Molly Bache, SOS program coordinator.

She describes the bird as feisty and alert, beginning to exhibit natural behaviors and growing feathers.

"S/he will start going in one of our conditioning pools for daily swims soon, and is on track to start taking field trips where it'll be able to feel the wind, stretch its wings and potentially fly out to sea if ready to do so," adds Jacqueline Nelson, SOS wildlife rehabilitation manager.

The chick was discovered in early October in a KIUCmanaged conservation site within Hono o Nā Pali Natural Area Reserve by an Archipelago Research and Conservation team. Sitting in a muddy puddle alone inside its burrow, it faced certain death.

"The chick looked really miserable," says ARC's Bobby Brittingham, who found the bird. "It was covered in mud and soaked, and the whole interior of the burrow was flooded under an inch of water."

The decision was made to rescue the baby bird by carefully transporting it from its burrow to the team's base camp.

"The logistics of the operation were quite tricky," says Dr. André Raine, ARC science director. "The site is very remote and often shrouded in mist and rain. Our team had to carry the chick across narrow muddy trails and descend slippery slopes using webbing to get back to camp."

Luckily for the chick, there was a small weather window the next day that allowed a helicopter to come in and transport it to Līhu'e, where it was handed over to SOS. Weighing less than a pound, the chick was slowly introduced to a natural diet and was soon receiving the ideal amount of full-strength "chick slurry," i.e., fish smoothies, allowing it to gain weight steadily.

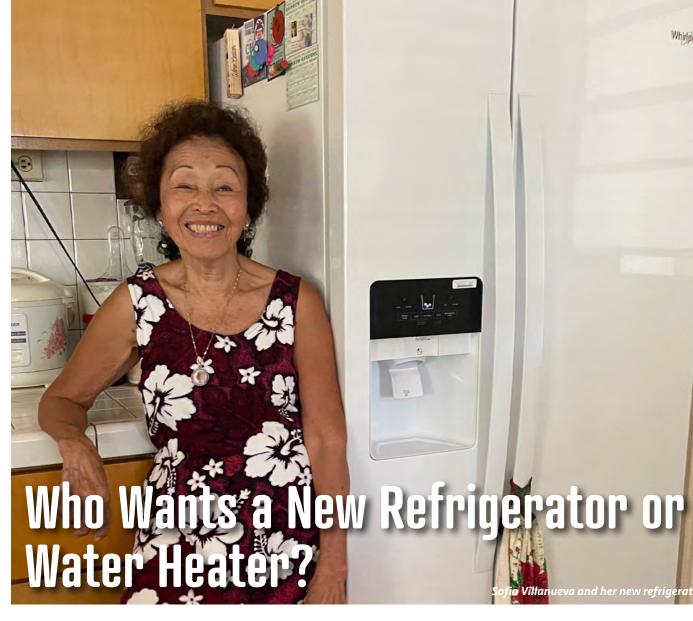

"While there's no comparison for being raised in the wild by its parents, we're thankful to step in when it's the only chance a bird has left," Molly says. "It may seem like a lot of effort for a single bird, but when you consider it's an endangered species and could raise 25-plus chicks of its own over its lifetime, the value of each individual bird becomes apparent."

Around a third of the world's population of Ua'u breed on Kaua'i. Due to a wide range of threats—including power line collisions, light attraction and predation by introduced species such as cats, rats and pigs—the birds are mainly concentrated in remote areas in the northwest of the island.

KIUC spends millions of dollars every year on activities and projects that both minimize impacts on endangered seabirds and protect known seabird colonies. KIUC's conservation measures include funding for Save our Shearwaters and management activities where the birds nest so they are protected from predators.

KIUC and the County of Kauai's Agency on Elderly Affairs (AEA) have a long-standing partnership in helping Kauai's qualifying seniors get free refrigerators and water heaters through KIUC's Qualifying Member Appliance Replacement Program.

The program helps low-income seniors age 60 and older to reduce their residential electricity use by replacing older, lessefficient refrigerators and defective electric water heaters with new, more efficient ones at no cost to the member.

KIUC's Residential Energy Services Specialist Makani Taniguchi works with Emily Medeiros, AEA's information and referral program specialist, to have AEA review and approve applications. Once the application is approved, Makani goes to the residence to ensure the existing appliance meets the program guidelines and takes measurements to make sure the new appliance will fit. He orders the new appliance with a five-year warranty and coordinates delivery and installation of the new appliance and removal of the old one.

va and her new refri

Whirlgool

Once the new appliance is installed, he goes back to meet with the member and does an energy audit on how they can reduce their energy consumption. He also provides them with LED bulbs, smart power strips and plugs.

Participants in the program must meet federal poverty guidelines and own the existing water heater or refrigerator, which must be the primary refrigerator and be at least 10 years old. To determine eligibility, call the County's Agency on Elderly Affairs at 808.241.4470. ۞

WEST KAUA'I COMMUNITY

1. Do I need to finish my antibiotic prescription even when I'm starting to feel better?

Yes, unless otherwise directed by your physician. It is important to complete the regimen to prevent reinfection and antibiotic resistance.

2. Why is a 7-day Med Minder beneficial?

It is important to utilize a Medication Reminder box to help you remember your medication doses as well as to use as a tool to avoid accidentally taking extra doses. Also in addition, setting a recurring alarm (ex: on your phone) is another useful tool to increasing medication compliance.

3. What if I missed taking my prescribed medication at the time recommended?

It depends on the length of time since your scheduled dose and the frequency in which you take the medication. For example, if you forgot to take your once daily dose of a morning medication it may be pertinent to take the dose of that medication as soon as you remember. Then, over the next several days a patient may slowly work the timing back to its original.

4. Should I double up?

With most medications this is not recommended, though there are a few scenarios in which this would be advised. Please consult you pharmacist or physician for specific recommendations.

5. Why is it important to keep medication in a safe place?

There are a number of reasons to keep medications in a safe place: accidental overdose, pet ingestion, child safety, etc.

There are also safe storage recommendations for the actual medications: store in a cool, dry, dark storage space. Note: Bathrooms and Kitchens are a common storage area but are not a good location due to heat and humidity.

Twenty-Five years of Love and Light by Beth Tokioka

KIUC joins other utility companies for annual light installation.

It was a labor of love for 18 years. Every December, thousands of Kaua'i residents and visitors delighted in the Christmas wonderland created by Auntie Josie Chansky at her home on Kawaihau Road.

"Her decorations were so special," remembers long-time Kaua'i resident and Kapa'a Christmas House admirer Elizabeth Freeman. "They were handmade with such care and love from recycled materials. Each one was unique and delightful in its own way. She was a true folk artist."

Grieving after the death of her husband in 1996, Auntie Josie wasn't able to continue the beloved tradition. She planned to offer the items at a garage sale, and Elizabeth knew she had to act.

"We had to preserve this precious collection and find a way to display it for generations to come," she says.

After Elizabeth bought nearly half of the decorations from the sale, Auntie Josie contribued the rest.

The next day, Elizabeth called then-Mayor Maryanne Kusaka and told her she wanted to donate Auntie Josie's creations to the county. Mayor Kusaka thankfully accepted and asked Elizabeth to take charge of designing and producing the installation—a job she happily accepted and continues to do more than two decades later.

The Historic County Building on Rice Street was chosen as the location for the display. But that wasn't all. Elizabeth envisioned decorating the large trees on the lawn fronting the historic structure—and the building itself—with tens of thousands of dazzling Christmas lights. Just like that, in 1997, the now world-famous Festival of Lights was born.

Many hands were needed to pull off such an ambitious plan. The Kauai Fire Department and County Building Division, as well as many nonprofits and businesses, committed to helping stage the event. Members of the Tongan community have been front and center in the effort from day one.

"We couldn't do Festival of Lights without them and especially our logistics coordinator, Tevita Manu Fonua," Elizabeth says.

Once the plans for getting the lights up and taking care of the volunteers were realized, Elizabeth began to imagine how the interior and exterior environments could be transformed to create a world of magical beauty for children and families. She examined the space with fresh eyes to find nooks and crannies where engaging scenes could be created, such as Santa's Cane Train Village and Surfin' Santa on either side of the building's grand staircase.

It wasn't long before the next challenge presented itself. While the cherished Chansky collection was large, it could fill only a portion of the inside of the Historic County Building. More decorations were needed, and Elizabeth was committed to retaining the unique character of Auntie Josie's display.

Every year, Elizabeth designs new decorations for themed trees out of recycled materials such as plastic, aluminum and cardboard. In the County's Pi'ikoi storage area, which she calls Santa's Workshop, detailed tutorials are given to students from Kaua'i and Kapa'a High Schools' Hui Ho'okipa and Key clubs, as well as the Kapa'a Interact Club.

"Their creations are always nothing less than spectacular," Elizabeth says.

The Chansky collection is given special care as well. Volunteers from the Kaua'i Community Correctional Enjoy the Festival of Lights in the Park evenings from 6 to 11 p.m. from Thanksgiving through New Year's Day. Visit Santa and Mrs. claus on the Historic county Building Porch on December 3, 10, 17 and christmas Eve from 6 to 8 p.m. sponsored by the county of Kaua'i and Housemart Ace.

Center join members of Lions and Rotary clubs annually to refurbush Aunty Josie's creations, some of which are more than 50 years old.

The Festival of Lights quickly grew into Kaua'i's largest annual event, and eventually drew the attention of the Arts and Entertainment Television network, where it was featured on national broadcasts during the holiday season.

Until her death in 2009, Auntie Josie attended every night of the festival to welcome old friends and new.

This year marks the 25th anniversary of the Festival of Lights, a milestone that even Elizabeth finds astonishing.

"Thousands of volunteers, along with the support of the County of Kaua'i and hundreds of angels in the community, are what makes the festival happen year after year," she says. "That we continue to honor Auntie Josie after a quarter of a century in such a special and loving way speaks volumes about our wonderful community. Lucky we live Kaua'i." •

> Note: All 2021 displays will be outside per COVID protocols.

Hey, Do We Have Your Money?

Every year, KIUC publishes a list of members to whom we owe a patronage capital refund. Patronage capital is the money KIUC has left after paying all of its expenses in a given year. At the end of the year, that money is credited to each member's patronage capital account, according to the amount paid for electricity used.

In past years, KIUC issued checks to members, so it's possible some of those on the list simply forgot to cash the check or accidentally threw it away.

If your name appears on the list, you must apply for a refund. Please complete the refund form below and provide a copy of picture ID as proof the person requesting the refund is the same as the account holder.

Where Are They Now?

Dustin Julian, Youth Tour 2009

By Beth Tokioka

Q: Tell us about your background. Where did you go to high school/college? When did you participate in Youth Tour?

A: I was born on the island of Kaua'i and raised in Puhi. I attended Wilcox Elementary School, Chiefess Kamakahelei Middle School and graduated from Kaua'i High School in 2010. As a junior in 2009, I was one of four selected to represent the Island of Kaua'i in Washington, D.C., along with Alyssa Clark, Lacey Kalahiki and Natasha Abadilla. Four juniors in high school from a little island in the middle of the Pacific Ocean boarded a plane not knowing this experience was going to change our lives.

Q: Your brother Michael participated in Youth Tour two years before you did. Did he influence your decision to apply to be a delegate?

A: My older brother, Michael, sadly passed away in June 2017. He was very well-known in the community and was remembered very well in YT and the National Rural Electric Cooperative's Youth Leadership Council for always having the biggest smile and heart. He was everyone's favorite. Many of his YT friends reached out to us during that difficult time.

He was my biggest influencer and motivated me to be the best person I could be every day. Being the younger brother, I always wanted to be like my older brother.

Michael was one of the reasons I applied to be a part of YT. He was selected to represent Kaua'i and KIUC in 2007 for both YT and YLC, which consists of one student from cooperatives representing 48 different states. Hearing his stories about traveling to D.C., making new friends and how YT gave him a new appreciation for everything we have at home on Kaua'i made me want to have that same experience.

My parents, Dominador and Linda Julian, were another reason why I decided to apply as a delegate. They all assured me this would be a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity, and they were right.

Q: Did the two of you share stories about your YT and YLC experiences?

A: My brother and I talked for hours about our experiences. Most of our stories were pretty similar. We both thought the Smithsonian National Museum of Natural History was one of the coolest museums we have ever visited. We agreed that Ben's Chili Bowl was one of the best places we ate at while in D.C. We made lifelong friends from Kansas and Kaua'i.

I told him that traveling to Kansas and to Washington, D.C., really opened my eyes and gave me a new appreciation of the little island I call home. Learning more about electric cooperatives while we were there gave us a better understanding of how big of a positive impact our electric cooperative has in our community.

He was also really happy to hear that I, too, got selected to be a part of the NRECA YLC. I told my brother that he was right, and that this trip was a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity. All he responded with was, "I told you so."

Q: What was most memorable for you about Youth Tour?

A: Definitely all the friends I made and the unforgettable people we met. I believe it's easy to forget some of the places you visit and the things you see, but you will always remember the people you meet along the way. I still keep in touch with some of my friends from Kansas, and it is nice to see how everyone is doing after the many years since Youth Tour.

In addition to making lifelong friendships, another special memory I have was meeting Sen. Akaka. This was one of the biggest highlights of the trip because it's not every day you get to shake the hand of a United States senator.

Q: What are you doing now?

A: I recently married the woman of my dreams, Abigail Julian (Iloreta). I'm currently living on the Big Island training to become a firefighter. Prior to this, I was working for American Medical Response on Kauai as an emergency medical technician. YT has definitely influenced my decision to pursue these career paths.

I was given this opportunity to see the world beyond our shores, and it gave me a new appreciation for everything we have here on Kaua'i. I've learned how co-ops were made to give back to its members and its community. Becoming a first responder is the best way I am able to give back to our island and serve our community.

off custom face coverings donated by the Nero family.

Q: What was it like planning a wedding during the pandemic?

A: Abigail and I are just grateful that we were finally able to tie the knot after having to cancel our original wedding day in July of 2020. I have to give all the credit of planning the wedding during a pandemic to my wife. It wasn't easy. The stress of not knowing if or when we'd be able to get married was the hardest part. All we wished was to have our immediate family there to watch us get married. Fortunately, we were able to do just that.

Q: What are your future plans?

A: My immediate goal is to graduate from Hawai'i's Fire Academy and return home to Kaua'i to serve the community that raised me. I also plan on traveling to as many different countries as I can and experience the different cultures. I immediately had to move to the Big Island a week after our wedding and wasn't able to take my wife on a trip for our honeymoon. Once it's safe to travel and we're able visit Japan, I'd like to take my wife on a real honeymoon.

Q: What advice can you give to students getting ready to graduate from high school?

A: My biggest advice I can give is to take it all in. Learn as much as you can and have fun. Enjoy every moment of high school because those memories will last a lifetime.

Q: Anything else you'd like to add?

A: I'm truly grateful for what YT has done for me and to those who were able to be a part of it. I just want to say thank you again to KIUC and its board members for continuing to provide students with this opportunity to see the world and for serving our island community. O

Submissions for the 2022 Calendar of Student Art contest again were accepted online after positive input from teachers and parents who participated last year. This year there were more than 700 entries for the calendar contest.

Judges Carole Kahn and Lisa Kahn

Macko spent days and hours pouring over the artwork to select some amazing pieces for the calendar.

Carole said it was difficult to not have the art in hand but was very impressed with the talent. Looking forward to the 2023 contest, there will be an additional field for submissions to include the medium they used to produce their art.

2022 calendars will arrive in late December. Don't forget to start creating for our 2023 calendar contest. The deadline will be here before you know it!! 🛇
